What is Recognition?

Recognition is a process where current skills and knowledge are assessed against units of competency. This assessment can occur independent of additional study or training.

The skills and knowledge being assessed may come from a range of sources including previous studies, work experience and life experience

Rules of Evidence

When submitting / reviewing evidence during the recognition process the following points should be remembered and MUST be:

VALID

Does it relate to the topic in question?

CURRENT

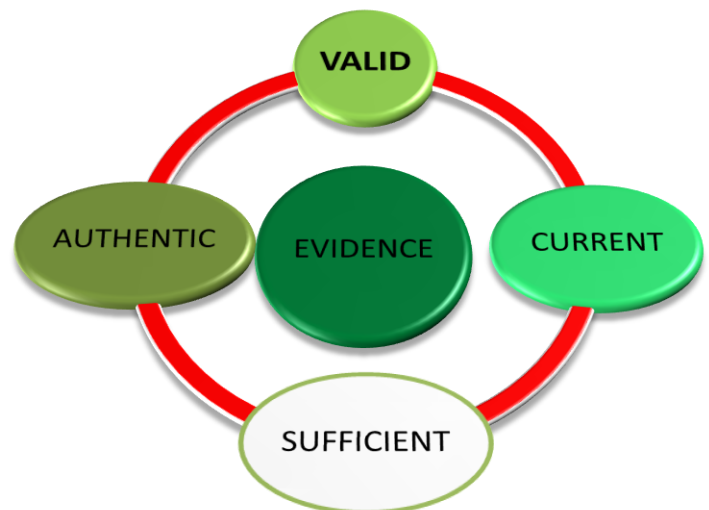

Less than 3 years old?

SUFFICIENT

Is it enough to make a judgment on competence?

AUTHENTIC

Is it your evidence (the applicant)?

Types of Evidence

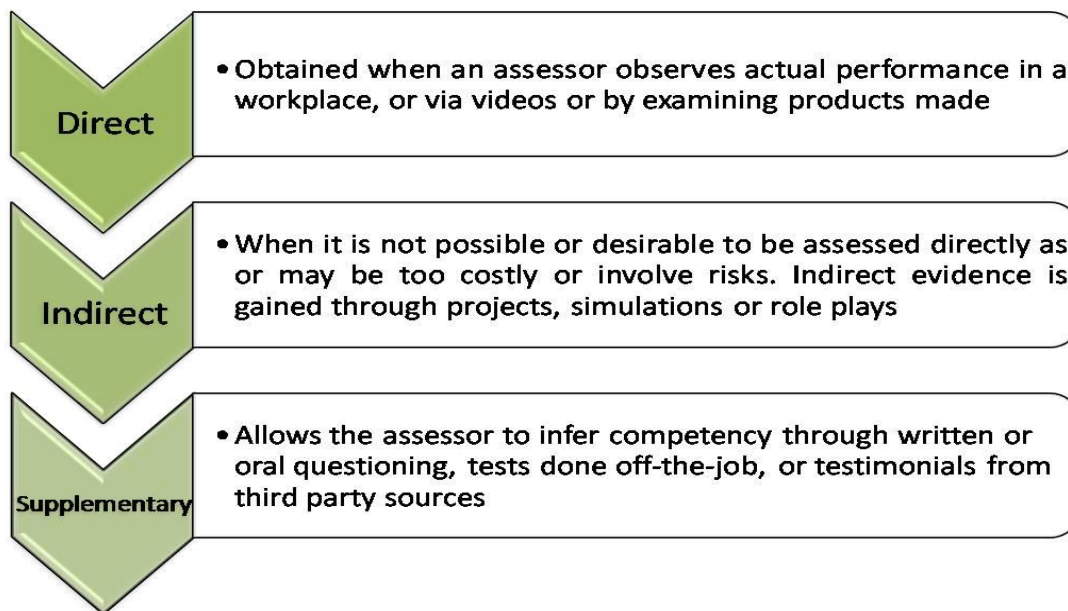

Recognition Tools and Recording Evidence

Recognition tools have been developed which format a unit of competency in such a way as to provide you, the applicant, with guidance regarding evidence requirements for that specific unit of competency

To assist in the Recognition process it is important that you, the applicant, clearly reference ALL EVIDENCE by marking in the appropriate place on the Recognition tool AND indexing their portfolio of evidence using the 'Evidence Index'

How to use the Recognition Tools

Type of Evidence

Read the “RPL Student Record Book/s”. Then either complete the form fill areas of the record book/s or print a hard copy

1. You must complete, with evidence, all the criteria areas and index your evidence accordingly
2. The next section will give you an indication of what is appropriate evidence for the RPL process.
 - a. Note: your resume can be used as part of this evidence, but such things as photo’s, trip plans, Log books, Statutory declarations, Copies of Certificates signed by a Justice of the Peace (JP) as copies of originals, video’s etc
3. Once you have collated your evidence for ease of the process, upload all the information into your on-line portal:
